Dear Adam Freihoefer:

I'm writing to let you know my concerns for the proposed Foxconn water diversion. I totally oppose this diversion plan for Foxconn. Lake Michigan is a treasure. The use of so much water for one company, with less than 40% of the water treated and returned to the lake is unacceptable. Foxconn is not a boon for 90% of the state of Wisconsin. Lake Michigan, in magnificent best form, clean, and cherished by millions for recreation, tourism and aesthetics should not be the sacrificial lamb for Foxconn. It is unconscionable to even be considered for this folly.

Sincerely,
Mary A Green
