Subject:	water for FoxConn plant

I am violently opposed to allowing FoxConn to use that high level of water from outside of their watershed.
I live a mile from Lake Michigan, I drink and use that water, I kayak and swim in it, and I enjoy the areas of natural habitat that remain along the lake in and near the urban areas.
The drain of that large volume of water will affect millions of people in Wisconsin as well as around Lake Michigan. I also have little faith that the water remediation and return to the lake will be properly monitored for quality. The movement in this state seems to be one of less regulation and less concern for us citizens and for future generations.

Once again, Wisconsin is willing to sell its tax-payers off in the name of "business" and a large amounts of money. A few pockets are being lined by this deal while the rest of us pay the price.

Sincerely,
Victoria Samolyk
