Let me start by quoting something straight from the DNR website regarding protecting the great lakes.

"The DNR – together with local communities, tribes, businesses, industry and non–governmental organizations – developed the Wisconsin´s Great Lakes Strategy. This strategy details plans for addressing Lake Michigan and Lake Superior´s most pressing environmental issues. These issues include:

- conserving Great Lakes water;
- preventing the introduction and spread of invasive species;
- protecting and restoring fish and wildlife habitat;
- promoting beach health;
- cleaning up contaminated sediments;
- preventing runoff pollution;
- eliminating the introduction of bio–accumulative toxins;
- promoting sustainable use of the lakes and watersheds; and
- improving the collection, recording and sharing of Great Lakes information."

I bolded an important part that rings clear when I hear about approving the removal of 7 million gallons of water from one of the greatest bodies of water. Please do not make the decision of risking a body of water that sustains all aspects of life in multiple cities/states for personal financial gain. There is a high likelihood that this company contaminates our water and takes all profit margins back to a foreign country. This could quite literally leave us high and dry. Please consider ethics and the future of our great state before making decisions based on greed.
