Adam Freihoefer,

The City of Racine's request for a new diversion of 7 Million gallons a day violates the intent of the Great Lakes Compact. The diversion is primarily for a private industrial use (Foxconn) rather than public ("largely residential") use as required by the Great Lakes Compact which states, "all the Water so transferred shall be used solely for Public Water Supply Purposes within the Straddling Community." The diversion application also does not provide enough detail about the quality of the water that will be returned to the City of Racine and Lake Michigan. For these reasons, the DNR should deny this application.

I am also concerned about how the use of this much water daily will impact the needs of the citizens who rely on this water for their daily needs. We must also plan for the next generations since we already know that water is becoming a scarcity throughout the world and in some areas in the United States. All of the water will not be returned. What chemicals will end up in the drinking water? I believe that this request goes above and beyond the intent of the Compact and must be denied'

Thank you Erika Voss
