EDITORIAL

Making the Most of Your Job

History recalls many incidents that go to prove the point that no matter what your job in life may be if you get the most out of it you will lead a more happy and satisfying life.

In picturing one of these numerous incidents we can take the case of Sam Pierce who is at present Governor's messenger at Madison, Wisconsin. He worked his way up from a pulman porter to a respected position. This position was attained merely through respect and courtesy toward other people.

Just as this one man and many others have taken advantage of everything their job offered them so there is possibility for us to take advantage of our position in life. If one does just a little more than he is expected to do, he is the first in line for promotion.

This lesson can be applied to the average man in this camp.
Don't do just enough to get by on but do a little more and eventually your break will come.
On the job, Learn While Doing is a good motto and above all be a Good listener.

Many men in CCC Camps have the idea that they must possess certain definite skills to secure a position in present day industry. This is partly true but in most cases it is entirely erroneous.

A short time ago the Commanding Officer had the opportunity to interview the General Manager of one of the largest furniture factories of its kind in the world.

Here are a list of the statements he made in regards to men for his plant.

We want men with basic educational qualities, men who can take it, and who can obey orders men who can follow instructions, also who are ambitious and want to develop their abilities. We can train them to fit our plan of work through apprentices.

We suggest you keep this editorial in mind as it will benefit you in future life.

No man is the absolute lord of his life. -Owen Meredith
