NEWPORT STATE PARK TRAILS

- Monarch Trail Loop (1.75 mi) – Passes through open meadows with aspen, birch, juniper and conifers reclaiming 100-year-old farmland.
- Poetry Trail (0.6 mi) – Poems are on 10 permanent stanchions along parts of the Rowleys Bay and Monarch Trails. Available year-round and exhibits change quarterly.
- Rowleys Bay Trail Loop (4 mi) – Sections of boreal forest and old pine plantations. Along Rowleys Bay, the trail skirts rock ledges and cool cedar woods.
- Newport Trail Loop (3.5 mi) – Transition forest following old logging roads. Goes through remnants of boreal forest more typical of Canada than Wisconsin.
- Ridge Trail (1 mi) – A rocky, hike-only trail that intersects Newport Trail and follows an old shoreline.
- Sand Cove and Duck Bay Trail (1 mi) – Branches off the Newport Trail and weaves along sandy bays near the lakeshore.
- Upland Trail Loop (2 mi) – A self-guided nature trail with stations along the trail to identify trees, flowers and wildlife.
- Fern/Europe Bay Trail Loop (1.2 mi) – Accessible to people with disabilities, this wide, flat trail is geared to those with mobility, hearing and visual impairments. Check out a Discovery Pen at the park office to use on the interpretive signs along the trail which are filled with auditory and tactile messages about history, landscape, plants and wildlife.
- Lynd Point Trail Loop (2.5 mi) – Branches from the Europe Bay Trail and follows the rugged, rocky shoreline with beautiful lake views and vistas.

- Hotz Trail Loop (2-3 mi) – Follows a sand ridge on the east side of Europe Lake. Rolling sand dunes offer several vantage points to see Europe Lake and Lake Michigan.
- Sugarbush Trail (1.3 mi) – Used for maple sugaring from the 1900s to the 1980s, this trail also illustrates the oldest inland post-glacial shoreline within the park.
