The Butternut wastewater treatment facility consists of two stabilization ponds, a small holding and pumping cell, and three seepage cells. In 2008, three groundwater monitoring wells will be installed adjacent to the seepage cells. The diagram below shows the treatment units and sampling locations.